

I support continuing the "cross-ownership ban." The trend towards bigger and bigger mergers hurts the common human's ability to get unbiased information and in turn harms representative democracy.

The need for unbiased information is particularly accute in this time of national crisis, and so it is utterly reprehensible that your agency took advantage of the nation's mourning to initiate a so-called "review" of this ban. Don't be a corporate lap dog. You might not feel it now, but your conscience is watching, and so am I.
